The ship was one of the first to enter this once-powerful Japanese naval base. Large groups of Japanese civilians observed the vessel as she patrolled just off shore opposite the city of Amori. The Monssen crew inspected the Naval base and Jap fishing craft in Mutsi Bay.

The Monssen in the closing weeks of the war hit this area as part of Admiral William F. Halsey's famed task force. These operations included a day-light raid at the steel city of Muroran followed by a bombardment of the Hitachi Armament works 70 miles north of Tokyo.

The destroyer also saw action at Saipan, the Palaus, Tinian, Leyte, Luzon, Eastern Philippines, Surigao Straits, Iwo Jima, Okinawa, Qyushu, the Kuriles, and strikes at the Jap homeland.

PRESBYTERIAN PASTORS WILL EXCHANGE PULPITS

Next Sunday, October 21, there will be an exchange of pulpits among the ministers of the Presbyterian parish. Mr. Lewis will preach at Irvington, Mr. Brown at Centerville and Mr. Jacobsen at Newark.

This custom will be followed throughout the winter months in order to acquaint the ministers with the various congregations and vice-versa.

There will be a union (old country) harvest Thanksgiving service on Sunday evening, October 28 at 7:30 p.m. at the Newark Church.

The auditorium will have flowers, fruits, and vegetables on display, creating an atmosphere where thankfulness is easy. "It is hoped," says Mr. Brown, "that the counting of our blessings will lead us to share with others."

Parcels of clothes and being sent to Holland and Denmark and contributions of new and used clothing will be forwarded. In these countries, shoes are desperately needed.

PEANUTS ALL OVER; TRUCK HITS BANK

It was enough to make Irvington kids glad, Irvington housewives sad, and the Central Bank in Irvington a little mad.

A truck and trailer, apparently going into the turn in front of the bank at too high a speed, swung off the highway and overturned against the building. Bound toward Oakland, the truck was laden principally with peanuts and mayonnaise, according to evidence on the sidewalk and street.

The accident occurred at 4 a.m. Wednesday. The truck, belonging to Valley Motors of Fresno, was driven by Orville L. Rutter of Stockton. He suffered minor injuries and was taken to Dr. Holeman in Centerville by the Dallas Paul ambulance.

The front of the Central Bank building was roughened up a bit, some stucco shaken loose and a fire hydrant broken off with resultant minor flood. No windows, however, were broken.

FURNITURE STORE OPENS TOMORROW IN DECOTO

The Decoto Furniture Store, a branch of the Niles Furniture Company, is getting everything all set for the big opening tomorrow, in the Ramos Building at 514 Fourth Street. It will be under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Garcia, well-known residents of Decoto. A full line of furniture and appliances will be carried.

"Our business in Niles is so far beyond our expectations that it has encouraged us to branch out a little," said Walter Chrysler, one of the partners in the Niles Furniture Company. Edward Mara is the other partner.

LLOYD AMARAL HOME AFTER FOUR YEARS

Lloyd Amaral is back at his Irvington home after four years and three months of service with Uncle Sam's Army.

As a matter of fact, it has been exactly four years and three months since he had seen his family. His mother, up until the time he came home last Saturday, had never seen him in uniform! It was his misfortune to be sent out of the country without having a furlough long enough to permit him to come home.

He has seen plenty in the time that he has been away. He was in Iceland for 20 months, on an outpost doing communications work.

"It was rugged," he says briefly. It was at Iceland that he saw his first German, one of the survivors of a submarine that had been hit by depth charges. It was also at Iceland that he underwent his first bombing.

From Iceland he was sent to England, thence to France, and into Germany. He finished the war on the Czechoslovakian border, and then spent a month at a summer resort at a lake near Munich. He left this lake on Sept. 1, and arrived in Newport News on Oct. 3.

Like most of the boys returning home from the rigors of war, he is reluctant to talk about the actual warfare.

One of the few nice things he has to remember is his meeting with Les Callahan of Mission San Jose in Paris. Callahan had a 3-day pass (which he extended of his own accord to four days!) and the two saw Paris together. Callahan is still in France, and has charge of 40 prisoners of war at the present time. He is the only boy from here that Amaral met all the time he was over there.

NEWARK C. OF C. GROWS TO 20

A constitution and by-laws were adopted and four new members accepted when the Newark Chamber of Commerce met Monday at the grammar school.

The revived business group in Newark now has 20 members. Meetings are held on the third Monday of each month.

Officers of the Chamber of Commerce are: president, Richard Jolly; vice president, Arthur Cotton; secretary, Ray Alberts; treasurer, Joseph Pashote.

'RED' MYRICK TELLS OF WAR EXPERIENCES

It's a long time since October 22, 1941. It's even longer if you have been in the Army all that time, and most of that time fighting on the battle fronts of the world. But that what T/4 Charles "Red" Myrick has been doing since that date.

Home now with a discharge, Myrick tells about his war experiences in a matter-of-fact tone. He has learned to be matter-of-fact about everything. You have to be, when you're in the Army, and seeing sights that you though you would never have to see as long as you live.

"You get hardened to things," he says gravely. "You see things that you can't even talk about."

He looked out the windows of the Register office and pointed to a couple of young boys on a bicycle.

"See those kids?" he asked. "They look innocent, don't they? As if they wouldn't hurt anybody. Well, that's the way the kids, no older than those boys, looked in Germany, too. But they weren't innocent. The first thing you know they'd be throwing glass and bottles at you, and sniping at you from doorways and windows. You'd see them shoot down your buddies. It was pretty grim."

Then there was the cold, and the rain-soaked clothes, and the going-without-sleep for days on end.

"You finally get numb," he said, "if you go without sleep too long. You get so you don't care what happens."

Myrick was at Casablanca, at Bizerte, at Salerno and Anzio. He saw the worst of war there in Italy. At Anzio, the boys, between skirmishes, went wild for something to do. They finally rigged up what they termed "fox-hole" radios, which, as any G.I. knows, is nothing more than a razor blade, copper wires and ear phones.

"It gave us something to do, making these radios," he said.

With these radios, the boys listened to "Axis Sally," who did her broadcasting from Rome. Born in Philadelphia of German parentage, she spoke good English. Her innuendoes and German propa-

CENTERVILLE BOY SCOUTS GIVE DANCE

Centerville troop of Boy Scouts gave a dance last Saturday at the Centerville Elementary School. Over a hundred boys and girls of the seventh and eighth grades attended, according to Scoutmaster Phil Sousa.

This was the first time that the Centerville Scouts have held a dance. Its success indicates that other similar affairs will be held.

Tom Maloney and Mrs. Herman F. Lambrecht chaperoned the dance. Scout Scribe Joseph Betencourt acted as chairman of the dance committee and made all arrangements.

BEAR HUNTRESS DOES IT AGAIN

Idlers around Joe's Corner in Niles looked at the animal on top of the car parked there and made various comments:

"Make a nice rug, hm?"

"Um, steak. Bear steak!"

"She's went and done it again!"

Yes, Mrs. Helen Carey shot another bear. It seems she does this every year, up around El Dorado.

Asked how she does it, she says, "You put some honey right here"—she indicated her cheek —"and you know bears like honey. Then, when he comes up to lick the honey off your cheek you hit him with a club."

However, some doubt attaches to this explanation, because this particular bear happened to be a "her."

FRED LEWIS CHAIRMAN OF FARM BUREAU

Fred Lewis of Centerville was elected chairman of the Farm Bureau at their meeting held Tuesday night in the cafeteria of Washington Union High School. Lewis Succeeds Ross Brown, who held the office the past year.

Following the business meeting and election of officers, George Goodale addressed the group on prices and price support for farm commodities.

Pete Myers of Hayward then told the farmers about the new paint, containing the insecticide DDT, that is being used with excellent results on farm and poultry houses.

PAUL GYGAX, Jr. GETS DISCHARGE

T/4 Paul Gygax, Jr., of Newark, arrived home Sunday with a discharge, after two years and five months of army duty. He has the Purple Heart and the Silver Star. In charge of a litter squad, he went out in the hills east of Manila with his men on a rescue mission in the dead of night. The circumstances of the mission were such that the commanding officer thought it was an action far beyond the call of duty. For this, he received the Silver Star. He arrived in San Francisco October 8 on the "General Polk," and was discharged last Sunday at Camp Beale. With the first Cavalry division, he went through Leyte and Luzon, among others.

A former employee of the H. J. Heinz Company in Oakland, he expects to rest a while and return there to work.

BILL HELM IN A STATE OF INDECISION

IS HE RUNNING THEATER OR RESTAURANT

"They come in with soda pop. They come in with milk-shakes. They come in with hamburgers. But, my God, when they start coming in with hamburgers WITH ONIONS, then it's time I took action."

Bill Helm was speaking. He runs the Niles Theater, you know.

"Sometimes," he says bitterly, "I wonder whether I'm running a restaurant or a theater. They eat everything here. It used to be just peanuts and pop-corn and candy. Light refreshments. Now they're starting to bring in three-course dinners!"

As you can see, Bill is really in a dither over the situation. He's sure that in no theatre in the country do the patrons have the appetites that they have in Niles.

"I guess I've spoiled 'em," Bill says ruefully, "by letting 'em go out while the show was on to buy all this stuff. When it was just pop-corn and stuff like that, I didn't mind. But now—hamburgers WITH ONIONS."

It was the onions that finally made Bill put his foot down. "No, brother," he said, "you are not bringing those hamburgers in here. Make up your mind—do you want to see a show or do you want to eat?"

Bill hates to get tough about it. He likes to see people happy. But after all, the traffic to and from nearby lunch counters while the show is in progress is becoming immense. If it's the kids, they'll sit through Mighty Mouse, and when the love scenes come on, slip out and smuggle in a hot-dog or a coke, and return in time to see Mighty Mouse all over again. If its the adults, they'll sneak out while Mighty Mouse is in progress, bring in a few bags of pop-corn and munch their way through the love scenes.

"Something's got to be done about it," says Bill emphatically. "The debris after these nightly banquets is terrific. Quite often there are eight or ten bucketsful of stuff to sweep up off the floor in the morning — bottles, peanut shells, paper bags."

Bill has appealed to the school authorities for help. So this week the Niles school is inaugurating a course in auditorium etiquette—what to do and what not to do in a public auditorium or theater.

That course should take care of the kids. And what about the adults?

Well, that problem's the stickler. You can't very well give lectures to adults on how to act in an auditorium. The only thing you can do is to appeal to their sense of decency.

All Bill is asking is that they try to curb their appetites during the show, that if they must eat something, let it be some sort of melt-in-the-mouth candy that doesn't have to be noisily crunched, and to please, please not bring any more hamburgers—especially hamburgers with onions—into the theater.

After all, how can you enjoy the love scenes of Lauren Bacall and Humphrey Bogart with the odor of hamburgers assailing your nostrils?

Chamber of Commerce Considers Housing Shortage in Niles Area

The need for housing in the township area was demonstrated specifically to the Niles Chamber of Commerce at its weekly luncheon meeting and a committee was appointed to investigate possibilities of interesting outside capital in residence construction here.

Kenneth Henry, who recently opened a manufacturing machine shop in Niles, told the business men that he faces the necessity of moving his plant to another city where housing is available for help he must hire. Henry stated that continuance in Niles under present circumstances is not possible.

With this instance of loss of payroll to the community, the Chamber of Commerce decided that, since there are no indications of local capital being interested in housing investment, a committee should look into possibilities of interesting outside developers.

President D. Q. Grabill and Secretary A. J. Petsche constitute this committee.

Petsche told the group that he believed that there is a present demand for at least 150 houses in the Niles vicinity. C. W. Kraft pointed out that all restrictions on residential building this week have been lifted.

CAPTAIN GRAU TALKS TO ROTARY

The human side of life in war-torn England was the substance of a talk before the Niles Rotary Club yesterday by Captain E. C. Grau, himself a Rotarian, and before the war a physician in Niles.

Captain Grau's contact with the English began with his sailing on a British liner, the Mauretania, from New York. Fish at every breakfast was his first strikingly British experience.

England in wartime, he said, was a land of bicycle-riding people, who preferred Scotch whiskey but would settle for gin, who took the food shortage and scarcity of clothing and buzz bombs all in stride.

The English were friendly and solicitious and fair. He described experiences in various bomb-blasted cities where people went to shows and churches and restaurants and bars, and where they worked, even while the German rockets sounded overhead.

Early in the war the American G.I. was quite a favorite with the British girl, according to the captain. The American treats women with greater attention and to the British girl this was quite a novelty. Then, too, the G.I. had more money to spend and had the resources of PX's to draw upon for such rarities as candy bars, chewing gum and cigarettes—none of which were without influence on female hearts.

However, as the war neared an end, the British girl began to neglect her G.I. boy friend for the surer future of the native boys, matrimonially speaking.

TWO WHO FIRED ON NISEI WILL FACE HEARING

Two men charged with firing shots at two Nisei families will appear for arraignment at 9:30 a.m. Friday in Centerville.

Robert F. Hailey, 36, farm tractor driver, and Charles Custom, 42, garage dealer, are charged with attempted murder and assault with a deadly weapon.

The men were arrested September 18 for the shooting which occurred September 16 at the Thornton avenue homes of Mr. and Mrs. Sumiko A. Motozaki and Toshiaki Idota.

WANNA BUY ANY HOMING PIGEONS?

Thousands of army homing pigeons, veteran "G I" message carriers of good breeding stock, are now being offered for direct sale to civilians, according to the Office of Surplus Property of the Department of Commerce.

The war birds, all army banded and bred for message carrying and other military purposes, may be purchased in 5 pair lots at $25 a lot by any person on application to the department in Washington, D.C. The pigeons are from one to five years of age.

Bird fanciers, 4-H Club members and breeders on the lookout for exceptional stock are invited to write to the Office of Surplus Property, General Products Section, for full information.

The birds are descendants of some of the country's finest homing pigeon breeding stock and were presented to the Government at the start of the war by pigeon fanciers to aid in rapid formation of large flocks of message carriers.

Buyers of the lots of five pairs of pigeons will receive certificates of service from the army for each bird. This will provide evidence of ownership of the birds which wear army leg bands.

ESCAPE TO PARADISE AT CENTERVILLE

A motion picture, "Escape to Paradise," will be shown in the Centerville Elementary School auditorium on Thursday evening, Oct. 25, at 7:30 o'clock.

Admission will be: elementary school students, 16c; high school students and adults, 40c.

WALTER CONNOLLY WILL SOON OPEN APPLIANCE SHOP

Walter Connolly of Irvington announced today the acquiring of the dealership for Washington Township of the internationally known line of General Electric appliances. Mr. Connolly, a newcomer in the electric appliance business, said that he selected this field because of business opportunities looming in home modernization.

His place of business will be located in a brand new building, now under construction in Irvington, across from the Irvington grammar school. The building, a two-story structure, will have four apartments above. Date for completion has been tentatively set for the early part of December.

Now that the war is over, Mr. Connolly declared "a boom in better housing and labor saving home comforts and conveniences is inevitable. It's number one on most family lists. But the women folks, schooled in wartime economies, will not buy recklessly. They will insist on products of highest quality."

Under the franchise agreement, Mr. Connolly will sell (and service) all major G.E. appliances. These include General Electric refrigerators, home freezers, washing machines, ironers, clothes dryers, garbage dispos-alls, kitchen cabinets and air-conditioners.

GEORGE MAYS EAST ON BUSINESS

George Mays, manager of the California Pottery in Niles Canyon, left for Kansas last Tuesday with Mrs. Mays. He will represent the 11 western states in the formation of a national clay pipe association.

He expects to spend some time at the Ohio State University where he will discuss experiments which he has been conducting at the California Pottery at Niles with experts at the university engaged in the same work.

A $50.000 research fund has been made available to the university by clay pipe manufacturers for experimental purposes. Mays has been conducting extensive research at the Niles plant of which he has been manager for the last decade.

While East, Mr. and Mrs. Mays will also visit plants and study their products.

HUSKERS PLAY MT. VIEW TONIGHT

The Washington High Huskers, with a win over Jefferson High last week chalked up to their credit, will take on Mt. View tonight (Friday). The boys, playing Jefferson at Daly City, won by a score of 20-0.

A contingent of student supporters is following the team over to Mt. View tonight, with the expectancy that an exciting game is in store for them.

Thinking Things Over . . .

By VIVIAN BATMAN

From frequent perusals of papers and magazine—I have come to the conclusion that the number of predatory females is appalling.

You can hardly pick up a newspaper that carries an advice to the lovelorn column, but what you see a couple of letters whose theme is "My husband has left me for another woman."

Of course there IS a man shortage. And there ARE girls who are desperately afraid of having to go through life without a partner. But the truth is, that most of these preying females are already married! Perhaps it is the reconversion period, perhaps it was the war itself, or it might be just a restlessness in the air.

Whatever it is, the gals seem to have thrown caution to the winds. Not content with having a home, and a perfectly good husband of their own, they proceed to take away some other woman's home and husband.

Of course, friend husband does seem to be dull at times. But so would any other man! From where I sit, I wouldn't trade my husband for any other man I've ever met. I don't mean to imply by that, either, that he's better than any other man. I just mean that he's better for me. If you can feel that way about your husband, you're safe.

Part of the guilt rests with the husbands. Some of them — especially the good-looking ones— are inclined to vanity. If a woman seems to enjoy his company, to chat with him, or laugh with him, he comes to the entirely masculine conclusion that she is falling for him. To him, it is a signal for pursuit—and he starts pursuing. The wise woman will be only amused by his antics. But the silly, vapid creatures — whose numbers are legion—are only too eager to play his little game; the game in which, alas, there are no winners.

OPEN LETTER

An open-letter to Borden's
Dear Borden's:

I have just opened the pages of Life magazine. And what do I see? Guess.

Yes, you're right. It's another one of those ads. You know, a cow dressed in an apron with daisies around her neck. And a bull—I guess you call him Elmer—in a most grotesque position for a bull. And then another little cow with a blue ribbon in its hair.

Really, Mr. Borden, the time has come to stop all this nonsense about cows acting like people. Truthfully, I almost hesitate to open magazines any more. I can't stand seeing all these cattle all the time, dressed up like people. If they're going to talk like people, and dress like people, and act like people—why not HAVE people?

"But, Elmer, how did you ever get yourself in such a pickle!" teased Elsie.

Did you ever hear of anything more riduculous? "Teased Elsie" indeed! The words should be mouthed by some coy, dainty little creature. Certainly not a big cumbersome cow!

I know, Mr. Borden. The absurdity of cows talking appeals to your sense of humor. But, frankly, the absurdity is becoming too absurd.

Personally, if they belonged to me, I would take all this stock out and make nice T-bone steaks out of them. If they go on much longer, I would eventually feel like making hamburger out of them—and out of you, too, Mr. Borden.

Mooingly yours,
VIVIAN.

J. C. SHINN HAS HONORARY TITLE BESTOWED

A new office in Niles Congregational church offices was created last Tuesday evening at the annual church meeting and pot-luck supper, when J. C. Other officers remain about the same. Treasurer is Fred Duffie; trustees, E. A. Ellsworth, Bain Leask, Paul Offel, Fred Duffie and William Baldwin; clerk, Mrs. Joe Shinn, Jr.; deacons, E. A. Ellsworth and Bain Leask; deaconesses, Mrs. Dan Marble, Mrs. Catherine Parry, and Mrs. Grady Denton.

Truman's First Six Months

Maybe it seems like six weeks to some persons and like six years to others, but according to the calendar Harry S. Truman, 33rd President of the United States, has completed his first six months in office.

It was last mid-April that he was called out of the "obscurity" of the vice-presidency and handed the most responsible post in the world. Since the "inside facts" on domestic and foreign affairs had not been shared with him by his predecessor he had to begin from scratch, so to speak, and do a good deal of "scratching" to catch up on his new job.

Thus far he has had comparatively smooth driving in spite of complex national and international problems. The nation has solidly backed him. Until recently, at least, he and Congress have enjoyed a political honeymoon. His personal popularity has been enhanced by his simplicity, his average-man appearance and his small town background.

As he moves down the political road toward 1948 when he is expected to be a candidate to succeed himself, he is being increasingly plagued, on the one hand, by the labor element within the party which says he is not New Dealish enough, and on the other, by Southerners and other conservatives who feel he favors too many of the radical proposals.

The degree of success that he has in holding these extreme factions together will bear heavily on his political prospects in 1948.

Regardless of what his future political fortunes may be, however, it should be said that Harry Truman has done a good job of handling the world's hardest job during his first six months at it.

It Happens Here!

It couldn't happen anywhere but in America, but where in America would it be more likely to happen than right here in California!

The man who started out just 41 years ago this month with a little money and a big idea for liberalized banking service for the many has seen his tiny enterprise of 1904 become the largest bank in 1945.

Yes, California's Bank of America, which A. P. Giannini founded on October 17, 1904, today stands as the greatest banking institution on the globe. For the first time in the history of our country since Wall Street became the financial center of the Nation, and in recent decades of the world, banking leadership has passed from New York.

The significance of this fact to California can hardly be overestimated. It furnishes indisputable proof—if proof were needed—that our State has definitely advanced beyond financial and economic adolescence and is fully independent of eastern capital for the development and expansion of her agriculture, industry and commerce.

It is another barometer of California's breath-taking growth which has lifted farm income to an all-time high of approximately one and three-fourths billion dollars annually—the highest of any State—and has boosted the value of manufactured products from less than three billion dollars in 1939 to eleven and one half billion in 1944.

During its four decades of service Bank of America financed the purchase of nearly one million automobiles and the building of 200,000 individual dwellings. It has extended more than one billion dollars in installment loans and other billions to every type of private enterprise.

California already claims the world's longest bridge, the Nation's highest mountain and lowest valley as well as many other "firsts", but this new distinction of having the world's greatest banking institution is one of the brightest feathers ever added to her illustrious headdress.

'RELIGION BRINGS HAPPINESS,' SAYS ST. JAMES VICAR

By Rev. E. A. GROVES, JR.

The other night I was sitting at my typewriter thinking of something to write for this column. I suppose that is the fate of everyone who writes pieces for the newspaper. And then something someone said to me during the day came to my mind. It was a mere phrase: "Religion gives happiness."

I began thinking about it. It seemed at first to be one of those obvious things we all know and believe.

We seldom think of the many ways in which Christianity brings us happiness. Here are some of the ways:

It tells us in very positive terms that there is a God who is Creator of the world. Christianity is creative. It is a sense of becoming. That should make us a good deal happier than what our materialistic world tells us.

And then our Christianity tells us in no uncertain terms that this God, if we but work to recognize him, is a loving Father, also, His love surpasses all human love and cares for us as children. But the catch to this is that we must first want to know Him. Then comes order out of the chaos of human relations which makes human life dependable and orderly.

There is another way our religion makes us happy. It tells us that there is in the nature of this God, whom we worship, a control, in some divine way, of our relations with other men. This is not true for those who are Christian "in name only."

Our Christian conscience tells us that there is a goal toward which we are striving, and when we leave the path toward that goal our souls are not living, but dying. Literally, when we leave the path of Christian striving, we enter the path of destruction.

It is, of course, a common statement, but just the same true, that we get out of our religion only what we put in it. And so unless we practice our religion, go to church, incidentally where we get our strength for the coming week, join in the church's activities, and carry out our responsibilities as members of the Christian church, we can expect to get nothing out of our religion.

These are some of the things that occurred to me as I though about that statement "Religion gives happiness." There are others but these are the most important and any others depend essentially upon these.

FARM NEWS
AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE

HAIL TO THE FARMER

Here's a part of what it says: When the history of this war is written, one of the truly astounding chapters will be the story of how our farmers and ranchers overcame all obstacles to produce the needed food supplies. They and their families worked long hours; they pooled scarce machinery and tools with their neighbors; they used all the ingenuity for which the American producer is famous.

In 1943 our farmers produced 32 per cent more food than this or any other Nation ever produced before the war. They increased this six per cent in 1944, turning out an all-time record 38 per cent above the 1935-39 average.

And the increases were greatest for those commodities which were in heaviest demand. Driving hard to overcome the loss of edible oils through Japanese aggression in the Pacific, our farmers raised domestic fats and oils production by more than 30 per cent. Total meat production rose steadily, to a point 50 per cent above the pre-war level. In varying degree, these increases held clear across the board.

BETTER FOOD SITUATION THIS WINTER

Civilian demand for some foods may taper off this winter as consumer incomes decline, but the general demand for food will still be high relative to supplies.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture in a recent statement of the food situation, says a share of the food made available by military cutbacks will be shipped abroad, especially to liberated areas. The United States can easily spare substantial quantities of these foods, the statement says, because good supplies of these and other commodities will be available for domestic civilian consumption.

This fall and winter, the domestic civilian supplies of meats, canned fish, canned fruits, fruit juices and vegetables, turkey, chicken, dried skim and dried whole milk, canned milk, fluid cream, and potatoes will be materially larger than those of recent months and much larger than in the same period last year. In fact, more potatoes, more eggs, and more of the lower grades of beef may be available than civilians will demand at present prices.

SOUND BREEDING PROGRAM IS GOOD BUSINESS

A sound, constructive breeding program is good business for dairymen, says G. E. Gordon, specialist in dairying of the Agricultural Extension Service, University of California, in discussing the eighth point of the National 8-Point Dairy Program, Develop a Sound Breeding Program.

"The results of planning a program at this stime will not be helpful in the production of milk in the immediate future," Gordon said, "but the breeding program does have a great influence on production of future years. High-producing cows make more money than low-producing cows under similar conditions, whether prices for dairy products be high or low. Cows with the inherent ability to produce large quantities of milk from their feed are essential to the efficient dairy herd.

"Every cow in the herd should be regarded as one machine in the milk-producing factory . . . one that will wear out in time or will have to be replaced for some other reason.

Failure to replace each discarded cow with another one as good or better will soon cause the milk producing factory to lose its efficiency and profitableness.

"The development of a sound breeding program should be based on the use of production records and a consideration of these physical characteristics that indicate that it will be possible to secure the kind of replacement heifers that will have the inherent ability to produce over a long period of time.

"Good proved sires offer the most promise for her improvement whether they are used to head individual herds or whether they are used in breeding associations. The sons of good proved sires out of good producing cows and cow families afford the next best opportunity for herd improvement.

"In order to secure high production, which means more efficient production, our cows must have the inherent ability for high production and then must be given an opportunity, through good feeding and care, to take advantage of that inheritance."

Blue Wing Inn, built in the early 1840s in Sonoma, was the first hotel or public house north of San Francisco.

Sportsmen's News

The season on ducks, geese and mudhens will open in Modoc, Lassen and Siskiyou counties on Oct. 13, but the remainder of the state will not be open to waterfowl hunting until Nov. 2. Reports indicate that hunting should be good on the opening day in these three northern counties.

State and federal migratory waterfowl regulations this season are as follows: Shooting time, one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. Bag limit on ducks, ten in the aggregate, all species (1 may be a wood duck). Possession limit, two daily limits (except on opening day and only one wood duck). Daily limit on geese, Snow and White Fronted (Specks) four singly or in the aggregate and two other geese (Honkers, Hutchins, Cacklers, Brant, etc.). Possession limit is two daily limits (except on opening day). Daily and possession limit on mudhens and Red Breasted Mergansers is 25.

Species protected at all times are Ross Geese, all shorebirds (including Jacksnipe), Swans, Grebes, Loons, Puffins, Auklets, Murres, Gull, Terns, Shearwaters, Petrels, Brown Pelicans, Ibis, Bitterns, Herons, Egrets, Cranes and Rails.

The use of live decoys and feeding is prohibited. Shotguns larger than 10 gauge, rifles, repeaters,and automatics carrying more than three shells are unlawful. Sink boxes are prohibited. It is also unlawful to shoot from a power boat, sail boat under sail, automobile or airplane.

Every hunter must possess a state hunting license and those over sixteen years of age must obtain a Federal Duck Stamp. These duck stamps may be purchased at post offices.

California is the second high ranking state in the sale of duck stamps. Last year 113,251 federal duck stamps were sold in this state, only to be exceeded by the sale of stamps in Minnesota, where the sale was 114,415.

Up to October 5, 27,154 deer tage were turned in to the State Division of Fish and Game. To the same date last year, 25,756 deer had been reported killed.

MISSION SAN JOSE NEWS

WITH LOIS JUSTUS

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Silva are all prepared to kill the fatted calf in celebration of the discharge of their son, Henry, from the U. S. Army Air Corps. Henry, at 21, has served his country overseas, in the air over Germany and France, and has over 35 missions to his credit and several citations. He returned to the U.S. some months ago and following his 30-day furlough went to school in the east until his return to California to McClellen Field where he will receive his discharge one day this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Burt have moved to Vacaville to make their home. Mrs. Burt is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Azevedo.

Little Douglas Steele, 9 months old son of Cpl. and Mrs. Arthur Steele, has been very ill here at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Helen Santos. He seems to be suffering from an infection, which Dr. Buehler is checking.

Little Gary Phillips underwent a tonsilectomy at the Alameda Hospital on October 10th and is recuperating at home for a few days before going back to school.

Friends of Pfc. Daniel L. Silva, formerly of the Mission, where he made his home with Mrs. Rose Recend, will be interested to know that his section of the Marines are now at Sesebo, Japan. He says it isn't too bad, but give him his own U.S.A. anytime. He will be over there for at least another six months.

Mrs. Iola Seriva and daughter, Mary Lou, and son Richard, and her sister, Lorena Delburtis, spent the past week with her cousin, Mrs. Margaret Phillips and family. They returned to Lincoln on Sunday evening.

Mrs. Rose Telles and daughter Rose Mary, and Mrs. Alfred Andrade and sons Glenn and Eddie, have been spending a week in Modesto with Mrs. Telles' sister, Mrs. Louise Kahn. Mrs. Andrade and son returned Saturday but Miss Rose Mary will spend a few days longer there.

At Milpitas last week-end, Miss Lottie Untiedt, employed at the Booth Cannery in the office, and a friend who accompanied her to San Jose, were involved in an accident near the center of town. Miss Untiedt was following a large truck and another car passed her and the truck, because of the closeness of the passing, was forced to swing in front of the truck and brake so suddenly that the truck applied his air brakes and Miss Lottie ran into the rear end of the truck, mashing the grill work and radiator shell on her dad's Americar. The girls were bruised a bit, but continued on home on their own power.

Chief Cook Frank Ordillo, former Filipino cook at the C. L. Best residence here, has returned to the U.S. after nearly four years spent all over the South Pacific aboard ship. He spent Monday in the Mission visiting his former employer and friends and returned later in the day to Shoemaker, where he will receive his discharge. He will make his home in Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Hill of Alvarado have come home to roost after literally flying around for the past few days. Sunday they flew to San Diego to attend a nephew's wedding. Then motored to Tia Juana where they had an unsuccessful shopping expedition. They flew on to Los Angeles, staying with friends, and visited all the points of interest in Hollywood and Beverly Hills, even taking in a couple of famous restaurants, and all the well-known shops on Wilshire Boulevard. On Wednesday, their 9 p.m. plane that was to bring them north again, was delayed because of bad flying weather, so they left at 11:15, arriving at Mills Field at a bleak 1:45 a.m., experiencing an exceedingly rough ride.

Lt. James Stanhope, Juanita Galvin Wed

In a setting of white gladiolis and white tapers, before a crowd of close to 200 guests, Miss Juanita Galvin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Galvin of Niles, last Sunday became the bride of Lt. James Stanhope, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Stanhope of Oakland. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. D. Q. Grabill at three o'clock.

The bride, a graduate of Washington Union High School and more recently a student at San Jose State College, was attired in a white satin gown with tight bodice, full skirt and long train. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a coronet of pearls, and she carried a bouquet of bouvardia, gardenias and white orchids.

Her maid of honor, Mrs. Oliver Fox, wore rose taffeta with a bouffant skirt and carried a bouquet of white carnations and delphinium. The bridesmaid, Miss Iris Landry, was also in rose taffeta and carried a bouquet of blue delphinium.

The bride's mother, in turquoise blue jersey, wore a corsage of gardenias. The groom's mother was also in blue jersey, but of a darker shade. She, too, wore gardenias.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Galvin home, where a large and beautiful assortment of wedding gifts were on display.

After tossing her bouquet, and watching Miss Darlene Bolyard make the lucky catch, the bride changed into a going-away ensemble of black and white, and the newlyweds departed for a honeymoon that will take them first to Seattle and later to Mexico. Lt. Stanhope has to report back to duty at Santa Ana around the 15th of November.

By Don Hibner and Dick Wismer

The game with Centerville that was to be scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 15, at 3:30, was postponed until a later date.

On Thursday we play Irvington team on their field. We have been practicing at the recess with teams made up of the seventh and eighth grades. The following are the lineups:

We lost our fullback, Pat Moore, because of a knee injury.

...DEAR GUS...

Dear Gus:

Your letter received and I put that fin on your favorite horse at Pleasanton, but as usual he developed a bad case of slows and when I left the track they had put out lights to bring him in.

You always maintained that there were 1000 ways to losing a horse race. Since Tuesday there are now 1001. One of those Calo fugitives was leading by six lengths and fifty yards from the wire he got delusions of grandeur and tried to hurdle the inside rail. The jockey zoomed out of the pilot house and abandoned ship in mid-air; the horse lit treading air and Krej became so excited he split an infinitive. I didn't tear up my tickets on that nag; if I get a chance I'll feed them to that steeple-chaser, without mustard.

This horse meet has been a big success financially. I say that advisedly — not counting the cash customers; they don't count. Remember, no money is ever lost on a horse race—it merely changes hands.

Now comes the 64-buck-question: The County Fair should have made plenty of moolah, so why not plow some of it back into some buildings not directly connected with improving the breed of race horses? Unless the supervisors definitely plan to go into the horse-race business it is time that some one made an effort to build up a plant for a county fair. Of course I'm all for the merry-go-round feature and it pays the way for the whole show, but after three fairs I hate to see my hot and cold folding hand-made lace doilies housed in a rented tent.

It sure is high up here on a soap box and I'm really not going soft with the reform movements, but after you take a beating for two weeks you get a little punchy and start walking on your heels. It has been a great meeting and you would really enjoy it more than one of those big time tracks you used to write about while you were in the big city.

Anything can happen on the fair circuit and it usually does. Excitement and surprises in every race.

Remember the Governor's Handicap at the first Pleasanton fair? A three-horse race. One horse was left behind the gate; another was left locked in the starting gate and the other horse ran the race alone. And on whom do you think the Governor was betting? Three guesses. Right! Boy are you sharp! That was one cinch bet if I ever saw one. Longest shot in the race too.

Gus, you would really get a drive out of watching the odds change on the tote board as soon as the race starts. Krej starts calling the race and the poor misguided soul behind the board starts juggling the odds in an effort to keep up with the inspired calling of Krej. Since he never calls them right, I believe that is the reason for the big prices being paid. If there are three sets of red colors in the race, he is sure to call all three at some time during the race and when the blue colors win, everything in snafu as usual. I know that you won't fall for this malarkey, but it is a good gag and to the uninitiated it sure looks phoney.

Well Gus, there are only two days more and then they move over to Bay Meadows or go south for the winter. I hope that you will be back to your old rank of civilian first class by that time. Your old job is waiting for you but don't get anxious. You are out on strike now.

'RED' MYRICK

ganda were lost on the G.I.'s, however, but the music she broadcast was "plenty good", according to Myrick. "All the latest tunes."

After Italy, Myrick took part in the invasion of France near Marseilles. "The French people seemed really glad to see us. I had a two weeks growth of beard on my face, but even so, a French woman ran up and kissed me! They must really have been glad to see us!"

They went through France in a hurry, and through Germany into Salzburg, Austria.

When asked if all the horror that was part of the German prison camps had been exaggerated, Myrick replied bitterly, "It was worse, even. I saw a couple of them. Don't ever let anyone tell you that those stories were just propaganda. What went on in those prison camps is something you don't want to talk about—and don't want to think about if you can help it."

Through all the fighting that he went through, Myrick had some very narrow escapes. He was fortunate, though. He came home. His brother Willis, you see, won't ever come home.

CHILD WELFARE GROUP TO PLAY SANTA

One hundred needy children in Washington Township will be happier this Christmas because of gifts that will be provided for them through the efforts of members of the Child Welfare Club, which held its meeting at the home of Mrs. W. L. McWhirter this week.

The giving of these gifts will come under the jurisdiction of the Alameda County Charities Commission. The children are either members of needy families where one parent is ill or unable to work or reside in foster homes here.

Those who were appointed to purchase the gifts included Mrs. Allen G. Norris, Mrs. George Bonde, Mrs. Ted Harvey, Mrs. E. A. Ellsworth and Mrs. Elmer O'Connell.

The club decided that in the future it would center all projects around children's work. They also decided to hold a rummage sale soon, to establish a fund for emergencies.

NAVY MAN TO APPEA RBEFORE NILES ROTARY

The Rotary Club of Niles will observe Navy Day at its next meeting, when it will have as its distinguished guest, Lt. (jg) Charles Sheldon, attached to the Naval Supply Depot at Oakland.

The officer has been working for almost three years in the planning division of this depot, which is one of the world's largest. He has been afforded an exceptional opportunity to study the activities of this tremendously important base compared to most other officers attached to this Naval establishment. The subject of Lt. Sheldon's talk will be Navy logistics in the Pacific and the part played, during the recent conflict, by the Naval Supply Depot.

APPLIANCE COMPANY ADDS TO LINE

Addition of an automatic type washer, an automatic clothes drier, both gas and electric, a gas range and an electric frozen food locker to the Maytag line of household appliances was revealed to E. H. Frick of Niles in a letter received this week from the company, which he represents locally.
